Tickets held high in hands, students and coaches packed into Hilton Coliseum Saturday night for the Odyssey of the Mind World Finals Awards Ceremony. Beach balls were flown high through the air, exciting the crowd.

The audience cheered as they enjoyed a laser show equipped with pyrotechnic special effects to kick off the ceremony.

The audience was a light show of their own, as students sported fedoras, glasses and other accessories, all of which flashed a multitude of colors.

The majority of teams wore matching t-shirts emblazoned with their school names. Others wore squid and flying pig hats, Statue of Liberty hats and flashing necklaces.

The categories in which teams participated included "Triathlon Travels," "Emojis, Speak for Yourself," "Mockumentary," "Animal House" and "A Stellar Hangout."

"When there is a tie between teams, what do we say?"

said award presenter Dr. Jim Mourey.

"A what!" the audience answered back.

Poland and China won many awards. When winners were announced, teams stood proudly and cheered loudly, some waving their country's respective flags.

Even as other teams didn't receive the highest honors, Coach Marcy Selig reminded her students from Pocahontas, Arkansas, they should hold their heads high.

"We should be proud though," Selig said. "Did you ever think we would get here?"

Selig's students smiled and shook their heads.

"We're from a little town of about 3,600 people in Arkansas," Selig said. "While Arkansas has a big Odyssey following, this is our first year competing."

The 2019 Odyssey of the Mind World Finals will be held at Michigan State University.

Ranatra Fusca Award Recipients

The Ranatra Fusca Award, named for the water strider insect, promotes and recognizes creativity. This award represents the essence of the Odyssey of the Mind program. The Ranatra Fusca Award is given to teams or individuals who display tremendous creativity at competitions. This award serves as an incentive for risk takers and creative thinkers among Odyssey of the Mind participants.

Laboratorium Pryzmat Gdansk, Triathlon Travels, Div II Gdansk, Poland

This team combined drama and engineering in its Broadway-worthy performance full of contrast: black and white, good and evil, minimalism and sophistication. To elaborate on the theme, the team used a sophisticated quilling technique to illustrate racial tensions displayed via the vehicle's license plate. Aside from its creative performance and style, the vehicle combined 66 wheels, 10 motors, & over 100 meters of electrical wiring to create a machine that moved in every direction with automated grace and precision.

Princeton H S A, Triathlon Travels, Div III, Princeton, NJ

This team showed exceptional creativity and risk-taking in the creation of their vehicle's propulsion system and design.

The vehicle used a system of handmade wooden gears that was powered by a riveted rowing-machine style of propulsion. The driver of the vehicle used his feet and legs to engage the propulsion system. The gears could be easily changed to switch from forward to reverse motion, similar to a motorcycle clutch. The vertical sawing motion had to engage three different sized saw tooth gears. When one of the straps broke, the driver kept the vehicle going using only one leg in spite of how difficult it was to propel the vehicle in this way. The judging team believes this team is worthy of a Ranatra Fusca award due to the extreme risk-taking nature and exceptional creativity of the team's propulsion system and vehicle design.

Laboratorium Pryzmat Gdansk, Mockumentary! Seriously?, Division II, Gdansk, Poland

Humor was requested, but in a risky measure, the team departed from the overtly humorous intent of the problem in an avant-garde performance worthy of a professional modern theater troupe. With a larger than life abstract mask, the team members appeared as the eyes of the mask and used the eyes as a portal between aging and youth. Pictures in the eyes of the mask brought back memories of youthfulness. The team had the mask experience many emotions as one would as they gain wisdom with age. The design and engineering of the mask was a puzzle that showed the different elements that shape you throughout life. Hanging in suspense, Peter Pan literally flew through his interview via an engineering feat.

South Mecklenburg High School, A Stellar Hangout, Division III, Charlotte, NC

A versatile masterpiece, Desyre radiated unique artistic quality and original, risk-taking engineering. This large device conveyed the illusion of a live exotic bird to the audience. The team meticulously synchronized the multiple mechanisms, which allowed the puppet to perform coordinated and fluid movements just as if she were a real bird. Wings from the structure of an umbrella connected with a sinuous neck of dryer ducting, allowing every motion to convey her flirtatious and sassy personality. The feathers from hand-painted seashells created a natural iridescence. The artistry involved in the design of both the mechanics and the appearance of Desyre the Bird exemplified the creative spirit involved in repurposing ordinary, discarded items to create something absolutely extraordinary.

OMER's Award Recipients

OMER's Award is given to teams that demonstrate outstanding performance in areas other than creativity. Teams and team members who are honored show great artistic ability and demonstrate good sportsmanship and teamwork. The award also acknowledges individuals, coaches, team members, parents, officials and others involved in competition who serve as outstanding examples or role models through their words and actions.

Pinecrest High School Triathlon Travels, Division III Southern Pines, NC

The team spent time between competitions clipping clothespins with inspirational messages written on them onto unsuspecting World Finalists. The team decorated the pins with color, sequins, paint, etc. and included messages like "Good Luck" and "Thank your coach" and "You can do it!" It was so thoughtful of the team to encourage other competitors and anonymously recognize everyone's creativity. Pinecrest High School, thank you for performing this Random Act of Kindness!

Chino Valley Advocate F, Emoji, Speak for Yourself, Division II, Chino Hills, California

In the movies, a powerful story has beautiful music behind it to guide our emotions. We saw Hollywood-level story-telling today. We experienced a man's life from childhood to adulthood. Throughout it all, the original music performed live mirrored the emotion of the story and brought it to new levels. The child had light-hearted music. The man had a more mature sound, which darkened and grew with his burdens. The link between the performance and the music was flawless. The combined effect had our hearts aching with the story and brought tears to our eyes.

Geneseo Central School Mocumentary! Seriously? Division III, Geneseo, NY

The judges had never seen such an innovative backdrop. Charlotte the spider looked like a rock-star rock climber on a tension system backdrop held together by the tension of a web. This set was large enough to support the weight of a team member and a robotic fly who witnessed this wonderful weaving. The structure included three ladders with interwoven tie-down straps and was collapsible. Her team members dubbed Charlotte "humbly radiant!"

Orinda Rotary, Animal House, Division I, Orinda, CA

In this problem, teams are required to support three food items with their structure before they can start placing weights. While this team was attaching food to their structure's balsa narwhal horn, the horn suddenly snapped off. Because weight placement cannot begin until all three food items are attached, the pressure was on. This team, however, didn't miss a beat. The team members rallied to find a solution on the fly, fashioning improvised hooks and finding new attachment points. The team's poise, teamwork, and creativity astounded the judging crew. The solution worked wonderfully, and the team went on to hold hundreds of pounds of weight (480 lbs).

Rylie from M.D. Williams Elementary School Stellar Hangout, Division I, Pocahontas, Arizona

This unique musician wowed the judges with her audacious display of "arm-blarting". The speed and melody of her blarts showcased a musical mastery that left the judges and audience impressed and in hysterics. After tuning up her instrument backstage with the seriousness of a concert musician, she stepped up to deliver her performance. Rylie's instrument is not only unique, but her skill allowed her to deliver musical notes with the aplomb of a virtuoso. She displayed exceptional and professional skill that truly brightened the performance.

Caroline Morris from Ohio State University A Stellar Hangout, Columbus, Ohio

Caroline Morris has earned this award for her amazing heart, endurance, and commitment to Odyssey of the Mind. Caroline was diagnosed with a severe kidney infection in April and spent weeks in the hospital. She continued to be part of her team from her hospital room by FaceTime and by writing the script. She had a kidney stent placed 2 weeks ago, which worked great... until arriving in Ames. Caroline went to the hospital in Ames on Thursday with a problem with her stent. Instead of flying home, she was committed to participating with her team, insisting she could make it for 8 minutes despite being in incredible pain. She did make it through the 8 minutes, and immediately had to return to the hospital. Talk about dedication! Caroline maintains such an uplifting and positive attitude towards all and exemplifies what it means to be an OMer.

CCI offers its thanks for another great year!

While the journey over the past few days has been great for everyone, it has been even greater over the course of the year. Take a moment to look back at how much you have changed – as a person and as a team. In just one year you can see much growth in knowledge and skills of all sorts of things – from building and creating, to thinking and innovating, to speaking in public and sharing your opinions in an effective and kind manner.

From this growth you will continue to do great things. Each year we leave confident in our future as we see such wonderful and skillful youth preparing to enter our future workforce ready to solve any problems that arise. You are now part of a global community — from Switzerland, India, Poland, China and beyond. While you come from different cultures and backgrounds, you have Odyssey of the Mind in common. This commonality bridges continents!

As Dr. Sam likes to say, you have the greatest minds in the world, so be proud of your ideas! Sometimes new and creative ideas scare others, but persevere in expressing your creative thoughts and be confident in your skills – they've already brought you this far.

Of course, all of this isn't possible without our dedicated volunteers, coaches, and parents. Your work facilitates our future innovators. We are also proud of all the alumni that have come back as adults to volunteer. How wonderful to see generations of OMERs! We know you will help keep the program growing so we can continue with our mission.

A special nod also goes out to the Odyssey Angels program and this year's group, Big Cypress Elementary School, you have shown the world how to use your Odyssey skills to help others in your community! NASA deserves recognition as well, for continuing to offer fun discussions and challenges for all at its Science Talks and Classroom Activities.

Creative Competitions, Inc. is honored to be part of such a wonderful family. Thank you all! To be able to witness such talented students and inspiring coaches is amazing. Best wishes to everyone – and here's hoping you have another year filled with creativity and fun! Be sure to check out next year's problems!

Join the Odyssey Alumni Group

Division III and Division IV Odyssey of the Mind team members who are graduating from competition this year are invited to join the Odyssey Alumni Group.

The Odyssey Alumni Association exists in order to keep alumni of the Odyssey program informed, connected, and involved with Odyssey and its affiliated local, national, and international associations.

The group also provides opportunities for OotM alumni to continue their participation in future Odyssey activities.

Alumni have a unique knowledge of the program that make them perfect candidates for coaches, judges, and other types of volunteers. Often these roles are filled by family members or teachers of participants, but there is always a need for more.

For more information, visit the Odyssey of the Mind Alumni Association website at www.odysseyalumni.org.
