OPENING CEREMONIES FILLED WITH ENTHUSIASM & ELECTRICITY

BY BRENDAN DWYER

If someone wanted to know what Odyssey of the Mind was all about, all they need to do is attend the World Finals Opening Ceremonies. Electric enthusiasm, creativity, camaraderie and passion for new challenges and experiences are literally everywhere you look.

Last night the Breslin Center proudly hosted 894 teams from 14 different countries and 32 U.S. states, all doing their best to look as creative on the outside as they are on the inside. From hats that looked like pink flamingos, to crunchy tacos to squids, to team t-shirts of every color and style the arena was bursting at the seams with raw energy. The high-spirited event was the ideal kick-off to this wonderful week of celebrating amazing young minds and world-class competition.

After an emotion-charged parade of participating countries and states the crowd stood stoic for the playing of national anthems from all the countries. Program Director Sammy Micklus then took the stage to a roar of cheers. Micklus shared that OotM is what it is today because of volunteerism, and that is perfectly exemplified in this year's Spirit Award winner, Dennis Godfrey. He then went through this year's mind-boggling problems, recognized the 2019 Odyssey Angels and presented awards.

"This is the largest World Finals in the history of Odyssey of the Mind," said Micklus. "While you're here, be focused on your competition, but most importantly, make some new friends!"

Next to address the crowd was Odyssey of the Mind Founder Dr. Sam Micklus who shared some great stories from some of the early team challenge problems he created and the creative elements that were the very beginnings of the Odyssey of the Mind program. Dr Sam brought his Grandson on the stage when he was done and handed him the microphone to lead the Odyssey Pledge and declare the games officially under way!

The Opening Ceremonies closed with a wild electric light show as thousands in attendance, buzzing with enthusiasm, gathered close with teammates and coaches, soaking up the energy, hoping to channel it all for this week's competition.

V LO GDANSK POLAND IS READY TO ROAR AT WORLD FINALS!

BY AMANDA VASAS

As first-time World Finals competitors, team ROAR Theatre from V Lo Gdansk Poland is bringing exceptional creativity to the performance arena. Coached by Dorota Drewinska-Bandzmer, the team's six members include: Filip Bobras (age 16), Maja Dybuk (age 16), Natalia Idziak (age 17), Julia Rybnik (age 16), Jan Sachse (age 18) and Maciej Sachse (age 16).

"We would like to fight on! Long days spent at school, hours of hard work building scenography and creating costumes were worth it! We are extremely proud to represent our country, city and school at World Finals," said Drewinska-Bandzmer.

With raw talent and the prestigious Ranatra Fusca Creativity Award in tow, the ROAR Theatre team members are well-prepared to face the judges thanks in part to the support of new friends from Jenks, Oklahoma. With six members ages 15 to 17, this is Jenks High School's second year being paired as a buddy team with an iteration of the V Lo Gdansk Poland team under the leadership of Drewinska-Bandzmer.

"Our first team was China, then Germany, and Poland ever since. We had a couple of other teams before the one we have now and it's always a great experience," said Melissa Rickman, Jenks High School coach and buddy team veteran.

Like the many others from teams across the U.S., buddy teams like Jenks High School are ready to help with anything their international teams may need - from taking them to stores to pick up last-minute supplies to transporting huge props to performance sites (something Jenks helped their Polish friends with at World Finals last year).

From their first meeting at registration or the residence halls, World Finals is the perfect place for the teams to become fast friends: sharing dinners, exploring campus and even cheering each other on during their performances. As Rickman has seen in her 10 years buddying with international teams, the bonds formed last well beyond the final WF awards are given.

"The teams usually spend the last night staying up all night talking and playing games."

BARRINGER ACADEMIC CENTER TEAM, CHARLOTTE, NC

BY AMY PIPER

For the Barringer Academic Center team of Charlotte, North Carolina, the journey to World Finals was fraught with challenges. After winning their region, this team of fourth and fifth graders had a quick three weeks to take their performance to the next level and be ready for the State competition. They had to re-do their script, improve props, and finally they didn't have enough time to practice.

Their State performance space was smaller than their practice space, and they had to re-do actions.

Two years ago, they missed going to WF because they found spontaneous to be a big challenge. The entire team was afraid of spontaneous. This year it was that score at the State competition that saved them. Lukas Samra recommends, "Stay sounding cheerful and don't lose hope."

The moment the team realized they would be coming to WF, Varsha Rajesh said, "I was so excited during the State competition and started crying joyful tears." Varshini Suresh also cried. "Our spontaneous score was higher, and that pulled us up," she explained.

Tarun Sundaram's advice is always to have a Plan B. He suggests, "Always have another person work on Plan B, so if everything goes wrong with Plan A, you still have a plan."

The team flew to WF. Shrika Chatta said, "We were nervous because it was the first time going to the airport without our parents." Adding to the nerves is that their equipment is coming by truck and not arriving until the day before they compete. They will only have a half a day to be sure their props are ready. That adds to the uncertainty for WF.

To prepare for spontaneous, Shrika Chatta, Nandana Marpadaga, Varsha Rajesh, and Varshini Suresh worked together to create a team song. Then they choreographed a set of dance steps where Shwetanshu Chakraborty accompanied them on keyboard. Their coach, Sam Sundaram, says, "The entire team uses the team song to activate their minds, especially in the early morning, to get focused, and help settle their nerves before competing."

NOTICE TO ALL PARTICIPANTS

Please be aware that AT NO TIME IS IT SAFE, ALLOWED OR TOLERATED to climb into any dumpster for any reason on the campus of Michigan State University. Violating this rule could result in being removed from the event and/or putting yourself or others in great danger! Thank you.

The Michigan State University Police Department encourages the campus community, which includes faculty, staff, students and visitors to take an active role in preventing and reporting incidents that jeopardize safety on and around campus.

Residence hall rooms feature hard-wired smoke detectors and fire-rated room and wing doors. Residents regularly participate in fire drills. Night receptionists are in place to see that only building residents, or a guest that a resident signs in and takes responsibility for, are allowed in the building after hours. All room doors have peepholes and every residence hall lobby has security cameras.

University facilities are well maintained and their security is given regular attention. The "Green Light" Emergency Telephone System follows major walkways and are placed in campus parking areas. These phones, topped with a green light, are for emergency calls to on-campus numbers.

Here are some campus safety tips to keep in mind:

- Walk confidently and assertively. Walk with others when possible.
- Be aware of our surroundings and others who might be there. If you think you're being followed, turn around confidently and check.
- Walk in well-lit areas if possible.
- All walkers should be aware of open buildings and businesses along their routes.
- Vary any regular walking routes to discourage predictability.
- Realize that listening to headphones while walking decreases your awareness of your surroundings.

CALLING ALL ODYSSEY ALUMNI: JOIN "ODYSSEYALUMNI" TODAY

BY AMANDA VASAS

With 40 years of history, Odyssey of the Mind has amassed an impressive number of former competitors, judges and coaches, and there's a special way for everyone to connect.

OdysseyAlumni is the official Odyssey of the Mind alumni group. Its database allows people worldwide to join, volunteer, explore and meet alumni for educational, career, social and travel connections. The group is especially helpful for regional and association directors looking to recruit alumni judges. It's also a great way for alumni to come together for organized meetups.

Membership is free and registration is easy. Simply create a login, and update your personal profile with links to organizations in which you're active. The database allows members to see and search for other alumni in those organizations. OdysseyAlumni has grown 30 percent, to over 1,300 members, since its launch in 2017.

The group is now led by Michael Bojanski, North Carolina OotM alumnus. After competing eight years, he stayed involved in college: judging, leading Spontaneous workshops, and creating a Wiki for North Carolina Eastern Region coaches and competitors to find useful information related to the OotM competition process. He also became a member of his local regional board. In 2015, Bojanski moved to Florida, where he helped with regional and state boards. He now lives in Arlington, Virginia, where he continues to judge.

In 2018, Bojanski joined veteran Odyssey alumnus and group founder, Jim Mourey, on the Creative Opportunities Unlimited Board to help build alumni engagement via the database platform they launched together when WF last came to East Lansing.

Michael Bojanski, leader of OdysseyAlumni and WF Spontaneous judge, wants YOU to join Odyssey's official alumni group.

"I'm passionate about developing the next generation of problem-solvers," said Bojanski. "I strongly believe Odyssey of the Mind's alumni play a massive role in continuing to grow the organization and spread its impact."

In addition to the official group, Odyssey of the Mind now has an official LinkedIn: <http://www.linkedin.com/company/odyssey-of-the-mind/about/>. Bojanski encourages alumni to connect, and list their competition and volunteer history in their own LinkedIn profiles.

For more information and to join OdysseyAlumni, visit www.odysseyalumni.org and click "Join Today!" For questions, suggestions and to share your stories, email contact@odysseyalumni.org.

Emergency Green Phones

Residence halls without landline room phones have emergency room phones installed on every floor. This will allow anyone with a safety risk or concern to quickly get to a phone with one button emergency capability, greatly increasing emergency response time.

For additional information, visit www.police.msu.edu.

THE BRONZE SPARTY

As you enjoy your Odyssey of the Mind experience in the beautiful, picturesque North Neighborhood at MSU, one iconic landmark you need to visit is the MSU Union.

The heart of MSU's campus and its school spirit, the Union is located just north of the Beaumont Tower alongside Grand River Avenue. The Union has plenty of space to study or catch up with friends, a food court, a Spartan Spirit shop, and the MSU Dairy Store - perhaps most exciting, however, is that the MSU Union is home to MSU's beloved mascot, Sparty.

Although the exact location of his living quarters is only known by Sparty himself, he has adopted the MSU Union in its entirety as his home base on MSU's campus. For this reason, the MSU Bronze Sparty statue, sculpted by artist Alison Brown, was unveiled in the Union on October 12, 2016.

Located in the main lobby of the MSU Union, this powerful representation of Spartan spirit lounges on a park bench, strong arms outstretched, inviting MSU alumni, students, and guests to sit next to him. This perfect photo opportunity is an excellent way to commemorate your time spent at MSU.

Getting a picture with Sparty is tradition at MSU. As Sparty is always very busy spreading Spartan spirit, you may miss him during your time on campus. However, the bronze monument embodies Spartan spirit in the iconic MSU Union where students have been building community on campus for decades. While you're at MSU, stop by, get an MSU Dairy Store ice cream cone, and take an unforgettable picture next to the best mascot in the country.
